

CARDIFF RUGBY CLUB.

Sir,—After seeing Cardiff defeated by the Old Merchant Taylors on Saturday the necessity of having fast wing three-quarters has been brought home more than ever to the members of the club. Although giving J. G. Will the credit of having scored two of the finest tries ever seen on the Park, I am of the firm opinion—and I am backed in this by scores of others who are in the know—that we have two wings at present either of whom would have overtaken Will before he had gone twenty yards. I refer to W. P. Nicholls and Stanley Williams. The former is considered by many to be one of the fastest men playing the game. I would suggest to the committee that they give the following line a trial against the London Welsh: Nicholls (right wing), Spiller (right centre), W. P. Thomas (left centre), and Stanley Williams (left wing). In the last game Williams played, that against Swansea, he did nothing to forfeit another trial—as a matter of fact, he was the best of the four that day.—I am, &c.,

Sir,—It was with great satisfaction that I read the letter from "Old Rugbyite" in to-day's Western Mail. I quite agree with his statement that either Nicholls or Williams would have overtaken Will. Both of the former are certainly men whom it would pay the committee to persevere with, and I would certainly like to see a trial given to the line mentioned by "Old Rugbyite."—I am, &c.,
