Know the Laws

by FRED CROSTER

Still more on the new line-out laws. Working well so far aren't they? 'Peeling Off'. One of those finer points of line-out play which not many spectators really understand, but many forwards enjoy. Ask Howard Norris. It is worth a little study.

'Peeling-off' occurs when a player, (or players) moves from his position in the line in order to catch the ball when it has been knocked back or passed by one of his team.

The conditions are:

He must not begin to peel off until the ball has left the hands of the player throwing it in; he must move parallel and close to the line; he must keep moving until a ruck or maul is formed and he joins it, or the line-out ends.

This is the only time that a player in the line not jumping for the ball, can leave the line until the ball has been touched by a player or touched the ground, or the line-out has ended.

This means that a player cannot leave the line-out early to support another player before, or as he takes the ball — for the purpose of binding or driving. A phase of play which has now gone from the scene.
