WALES

L. MIAS (Mazamet)

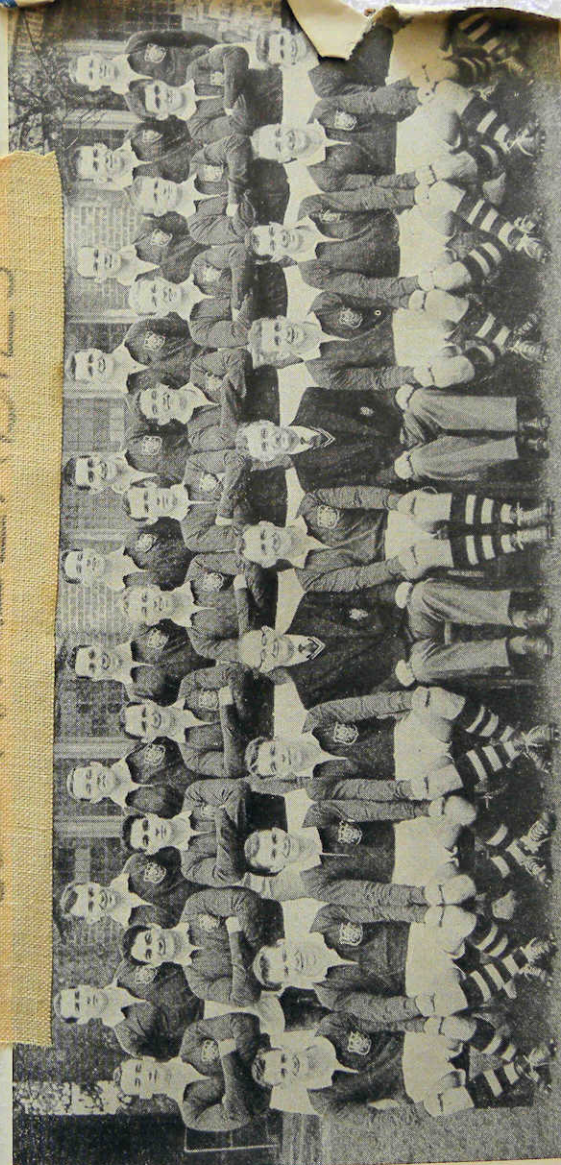

Aged 27, 6 ft., 14 st., 8 lb. Married. Switched from school-teaching to medical studies four years ago. Many Welsh fans will remember Lucien Mias, a bull-dozing second-row forward who won fifteen caps from 1951-54. The medical studies compelled him to renounce international rugby. His captaincy of the strong Mazamet team brought him into the limelight again. The strain of the medical studies easing, he answered a call to return to the national pack this season, and has been the biggest instrument in welding and galvanising it, and giving it confidence. A panel of critics voted him "France's No. 2 second-row forward, 1957" (after Michel Hoche). Was a junior international. Likes basket-ball, tennis, reading, and family life.

M. CELAYA (Biarritz)

Aged 27, 6 ft., 14 st., 8 lb. Unmarried. Electricity draughtsman and inspector. Michel Celaya is a dynamic forward who plays wing or No. 8 for his club, but in second row for France. A panel of critics voted him "France's No. 2 wing forward, 1957", after Jean Barthe. They voted him No. 1 in the three preceding years. Today wins nineteenth cap (fifth against Wales). Captains France, but doesn't relish the responsibility. Studied Welsh forward play with great intensity when France took TV version of this season's England v. Wales.

Captains France, but doesn't relish the responsibility. Studied Welsh forward play with great intensity when France took TV version of this season's England v. Wales.

M. CRAUSTE (Racing Club de France)

Aged 23. 5 ft. 11 1/2 in., 13 st. 9 lb. Married. Is an instructor with the nationalised electricity undertaking. Michel Crauste is one of this season's new caps—and a real find. Is clever, battling, ultra-tough. A wing forward for France, and No. 8 for his club. By nature a co-operative forward, who ranks his personality after the team. Was of great service against Scotland, England and Australia in line-out play, at which France had sharply declined. His complexion, and that rare adornment of a rugby player, an easily visible moustache, are responsible for a series of nicknames.

J. BARTHE (Lourdes)

Aged 25. 5 ft. 11 1/2 in., 13 st. 6 lb. Married. Was an electricity mechanic; now runs a bazaar and ironmongery store. Jean Barthe, nicknamed "Le Gallois" (The Welshman) because of his rugby style, owes a lot to the advice of his captain and back-row colleague Jean Prat. Has eleven caps, played in all four International Championship games last season, and against Scotland, England and Australia this season. A panel of critics voted him "France's best wing forward, 1957". Has a certain physical resemblance to Merlin Brando. Would rather meet a tough "customer" on the field than a light-weight complaining client of the gentle sex in his bazaar. Likes swimming, tennis and pelota; also card-playing with chums and reading; but "best of all", excursions in the country with his wife.

H. DOMEQ (Lourdes)

Aged 25. 6 ft., 13 st. 10 lb. Married. Formerly an engineer's fitter; now runs a laundry. Before wing forward Henri Domeq (fourteen caps) had a knee injured in the fateful France v. Wales of March 26th, 1955, he seemed set for an international career as long and glorious as that of his club captain Jean Prat. The knee injury proved stubborn and, between March, 1955, and France v. England this month, he made only two International Championship appearances. Against England, re-shuffling through injuries compelled Domeq to be a wing-threequarter most of the time, and he didn't shine there.

The French players' "caps" mentioned are for International Championship games, or for matches against Commonwealth countries. They do not take account of France's games against Continental or South American countries.

Hayward inspires Cardiff

By MALCOLM LEWIS

SKIPPER Dai Hayward was in great form at the Arms Park today and inspired Cardiff to their first Saturday win of the season when they beat Aberavon in a rousing battle. As a curtain raiser to the big game Cardiff Youth defeated Bridgewater Juniors and won 30-3.

Cardiff opened by showing bags of spirit and following individual sorties by Ashton and

DAI HAYWARD

Cardiff: A. J. Priday; B. Thomas, M. Roberts, Horgan, C. Evans; C. Ashton, L. Williams; J. O'Shea, W. J. Thomas; H. Norris; J. Price, W. G. Davies; J. R. Williams, C. Howe, D. J. Hayward (capt.).

Aberavon: G. Young; R. Staddon; B. Williams; E. Williams; P. Morgan (capt.); D. Rowlands; L. Cunningham; R. Evans; M. Wiltshire; W. Horgan; D. Perry, O. Jones.

Referee: Mr. Gwynne Walters.

Billy Thomas won an early foothold for Aberavon 25-10. When the Wizards started to leave the field with a head wind, unfortunately for Cardiff, the injury to Staddon after the return of a few in the first half, with an attempt at drop pressure and following a blind side scrum outside the Arms Park, the Wizards broke away to catch the Cardiff off guard, and following a scrum outside the Arms Park, the Wizards broke away to catch the Cardiff off guard, and following a scrum outside the Arms Park, the Wizards broke away to catch the Cardiff off guard.

Cardiff were not to be denied. After 11 minutes, they took the field through a first-class try by Dai Hayward. From a scrum outside the Arms Park, the Wizards broke away to catch the Cardiff off guard, and following a scrum outside the Arms Park, the Wizards broke away to catch the Cardiff off guard.

Cardiff regained their five-point lead soon after the restart. A brilliant move started by Hayward who was leading his side by several examples. The Cardiff scrum passed cleverly with Evans, Williams, and Roberts. Cardiff rapidly transferred the ball across to the opposite flank where BYRON THOMAS went over in the corner for an uncontested try.

MAX WILCHIE brought Aberavon back into the game by landing a 35-yard penalty goal. Giant Ray Evans bullocked his way towards the Cardiff line but at the last moment his pass went astray and a chance was lost. The end came with Cardiff backs on the attack. Cliff Ashton getting his line moving for Byron Thomas to get his chance of going for the corner, but Prosser managed to tackle him who touched inside the Wizards' 25.

F—Cardiff 8pts. (1 pen.)

Aberavon 6pts. (1 pen.)

Cardiff are back in the reckoning as one of Wales's hard battling Aberavon side was no mean performance and must raise the club's hopes of doing well against the All Wales. But it is not Cardiff who have determined and extremely effective constructive work in the loose, scoring a try and helping to open the way for a full support from a pack that more than matched the Wizards' fire. Graham Davies being one of the Cardiff eight's outstanding members.

Australian Tourists in Wales 1957-58 season

Pierre Danos, the French scrum half, who returns to the side following an injury.

WALES

A GREAT OVATION FOR A FINE PLAYER
Welsh players pay tribute to Amédée Domenech—"The Duke," as he is known by French followers of the game.

This is the French team to play Wales at Cardiff
today:

Back row (left to right) Mias, Celaya,
Domec, Bathe, Crauste,
Roques, Quaglio, Vigier.
Front rows: Rancoule,
Prat, Labazuy, Vannier, Lacroix (not playing today), Martine, Tarricu.

Bryn Meredith

Bryn Meredith, of Newport and Wales, has played more times for his country than any other Welsh forward. Between 1954-1962 he made 33 appearances, 19 of them consecutively, to establish himself as one of the world's finest hookers.

Born in Pontnewynydd, Monmouthshire, he joined Newport in 1951 after playing for Devonport Services, Royal Navy and St. Luke's. During the course of the next 11 years he made no fewer than three tours with the British Lions—to South Africa in 1955, to Australia and New Zealand in 1959 and again to South Africa in 1962.

He has skippered Wales three times, on the last occasion leading them to a sensational triumph over France.

Bryn Meredith was always looking for the chance to run with the ball. Here he breaks away from a loose maul in a game against Scotland.

OXLEE KICK BEATS WALES

South Africa pack held in mud bath

WALES nil, SOUTH AFRICA 3 pts.

By JOHN REASON

THE Cardiff Arms Park pitch churned and flooded and in these filthy conditions South Africa somehow beat Wales in the first Rugby international of the season by one penalty goal to nil. No question that they deserved to win. With the gale at their backs the Springboks hammered the Welsh line all the first half and with the gale in their teeth they heaved themselves out of their half and still hammered the Welsh line.

As an exhibition of Rugby football it just wasn't. It wasn't even a farce, because the sight of thirty players coated thickly in ooze lashed by the wind, heaving and struggling and slipping and sliding to win even a couple of yards wasn't funny.

The second half, in fact, was mostly eyewash. Surface slime was repeatedly splashed into the players' eyes so that it blinded them. And the game had to be stopped time and again while their eyes were washed.

Perhaps you have seen films of two strapping young ladies, usually American, wrestling in a mud bath. The spectacle is no sort of entertainment. It is somehow pathetic. This was.

TOO MUCH RISK

Conditions like these set their own standards. No purchase can be gained on the ground so it is almost impossible to shove. All the forwards can do is bind and lean.

There's the ball, waiting to be grabbed by a dozen pairs of hands, and it's every man for himself as the Wales and Springboks' forwards battle for possession

THE OLD-TIMERS

When these Aberavon stalwarts were playing with great success the club earned the nickname which has stuck with them ever since—the "Wizards of the West."

Packed with illustrious players whose names sound a pleasant tune in the ears of Aberavon fans there were in all eight players in this side who gained Welsh international honours.

Great players like Charlie Rowlands, Evan Williams, Lew Jenkins and Bob Randall played their part in making Aberavon the Welsh champion club for this and three following seasons.

ABERAVON RFC 1923-24

Among these Aberavon old-timers are two men who are now life vice-presidents of the club and still active committee men, Willie John Hopkins, a talented outside half who was one of four players in this Aberavon side to represent Wales against England the following season, and Stan Davies, a rugged forward and a man of unquenchable humour whose exploits on and off the field are still the source of some of the most popular Aberavon rugby anecdotes.

In a season in which they played 40 matches this Aberavon team won 31, drew four and lost only five, scoring 443 points and conceding 122.

Perhaps the star performer in terms at least of try-scoring was their elegant winger, the late Charlie Rowlands, who during this campaign scored 20 tries and was one of the greatest wing favourites.
